

INSTRUCTIONS

Oh let my poems move as in first gear
And never rush nor speed, and stop but never stall.
Let the first line gently push and feed
The motor starting. Let the last line fall
As dying motors fall. Let it be a poem
Like an old car on a cold day
That was never out of danger but got you safely home.